Stony Plain Town Council.

Stony Plain Town Council held its regular meeting on Thursday last, Feb. 1, with the Mayor and three Councilors present.

Red Nancy, the fire engine, was the first topic discussed, and this was laid over for the next Council to deal with.

A discussion took place on the proposed sale of the local Demonstration Farm, and information was given that the whole layout had been offered for sale, including the 40-acre plot which the Minister of Agriculture had promised would be left for demonstration purposes. A committee of Councilors was appointed to draft a petition of protest; to wait on our local member, and arrange for an interview with the Minister of Agriculture.

The Councilors decided to make an effort to return some of the recently-acquired fire-extinguishing supplies, as these had been reported on as unsuitable. The suggestion was made that the fire department's extinguishers be standardised to simplify the process of supplying re fills.

Some half-dozen accounts were passed and ordered paid. A hospital bill from a local indigent, and two other bills were laid over for further consideration.

A letter was read from Councillor Lord, tendering his resignation, and this was accepted.

The matter of the rent paid due from the Athletic Association received some extended notice. The Association contention being that as they were a public body, they should not be asked to pay rent for the refreshment booth. A motion carried that the Association be requested to pay the amount agreed on. All the Councilors present expressed their hearty sympathy with the aims of the Athletic Association, and wished it every success.

The Grove v. Stony.

Spruce Grove hockeyists came up to Stony on the fourth, and engaged the local players, when an exhibition of good playing was given. A few changes have been made in the local team, including the installing of Mr. Baird as goal-keeper. The play was very keen throughout, and the contest keen. The visitors winning by three goals to two. Mr. D. Mayer acted as umpire in a very satisfactory manner. The local team was invited up to Dufrail yesterday by the hockeyists there and left on the 1.30 train.

Moral View of British Debt

Country Does Not Really Owe United States a Dollar

The war was fought for a common cause, the men of many nations fighting, dying, and financing each other to save all from an unedifying fate. At heart the American people are generous—and they understand the situation just well enough to feel a sense of embarrassment at their commission imposes terms on a country that is playing the game and striving to save her credit. Morally the British do not owe the United States a dollar. When all is said and done there must be added to the credit side of the Justice and Fair Play account Britain's outpouring of gold in helping save the Allied cause from August, 1914, to April 1917.—Ottawa Journal.

TIRED-OUT WOMEN

What They Need to Restore Health and Vitality

The woman who feels tired out, who aches all over when she rises in the morning, who feels depressed most of her time, needs just the help that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give her—new rich blood and stronger nerves.

The number of disorders caused by this blood is amazing, and most women are careless about the condition of their blood. Their nerves are quickly affected, and they become irritable; they worry over trifles, and do not obtain refreshing sleep. There may be stomach troubles and headaches. This is the condition that calls for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the blood-making and nerve-strengthening tonic.

The value of this medicine is proved by the statement of Mrs. John Conroy, Fall River, Ont., who says:

"Two years ago, after the birth of one of my children, I became so run-down that I had to leave the baby and could not do my housework. I lost appetite, took no interest in anything, and was in a pitiable condition. I tried different doctors, but they did not help me very much. I was in this condition all summer until a neighbor advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking two boxes I felt somewhat better and got a further supply. I found my appetite improving; I could do my housework, and living again seemed worth while. I continued taking the pills for some months, and was then enjoying the best of health. I cannot too strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone run down and in need of a tonic as they built me up, and there is no sign of anæmia about me today."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Getting Ahead of Surgeon

Will Campbell of Cotton performed two quick surgical operations on himself recently when in stepping from his house he slipped and fell. Less Hail Losses

Saskatchewan Hail Insurance Statistics Are More Satisfactory

A. E. Fisher, Superintendent of Insurance for Saskatchewan, has issued a statement showing the premiums received by the hail insurance companies during the underwriting season of 1932, together with the losses paid. This statement is based on figures supplied by the general manager, and as far as the companies themselves are concerned, is subject to revision when the insurance treaties of the head offices are taken into consideration.

"It is certainly gratifying," said Mr. Fisher, "to note that the hail losses during 1932 were lower than in any of the past five years, and that the loss ratio was only 31.79 of the premiums received. The experience of 1932 was a great deal more favorable than that of 1931."

"As far as the premiums paid for hail insurance are concerned there was a decided falling off in the amount paid in 1932, the figure for that year being $3,457,247.45, as compared with $4,588,925.02 in 1931. On the other hand the losses for 1932 were $1,098,991.71, as compared with $4,628,127.60."

Rare Owl in London Zoo

Snowy Bird Was Caught by Vessel in Mid-Ocean

A snowy owl captured on board a vessel 500 miles out of New York has reached the London zoo.

There was once in the gardens a specimen of this large and fierce species taken 700 miles from shore.

One cannot mistake the newcomer, for its feathers are immaculately clean compared with those of the older resident, in the next cage, which have become dimmed by the smoke and fogs of London.

What is more interesting to note, however, is that, save for his face, the plumage of the latest lodger in the owl's aviary is richly adorned with wavy black markings, white that of its neighbor is almost pure white. The former is the livery of the immature bird, and the latter that of the adult. The home of the snowy owl is the freeless wastes of the Arctic. The bird is a regular visitor to Great Britain, but it is extremely scarce.

Help for Asthma. Neglect gives asthma a great advantage. The trouble, once it has secured a foothold, fastens its grip on the bronchial passages tenaciously. Dr. J. D. Do not neglect asthma, but use this preparation at once.

"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

Market For Canadian Grain Expanding As World Shortage Of Wheat Becomes Evident

One of the curious phenomena noted in the United States, and often commented upon, is the "wheat line" which has receded year by year as the fertility of virgin soil was exhausted and more diversified and intense farming was adopted.

It may be that some of the older grain growing districts in Saskatchewan have come to the inevitable transition stage which requires a new kind of farming. Summer cultivation, fallowing, green manuring, crop rotation, etc., are being slowly adopted, though the process is not profitable in growing wheat in competition with virgin land.

Yet the market for Canada's grain is expanding. Japan has just sent an envoy to make arrangements for the shipment of Canadian grain to that country, recently industrialized, and representing an enormous potential wheat consumption. Wheat can confidently be expected to drive out rice in the Orient, to some extent at least. This will certainly take place as the process of industrialization proceeds, for rice growing demands a prohibitive amount of hand labor of the most tiresome kind.

Within a very few years, the United States will cease to be a wheat exporting country, and will begin to import a part of its bread supply. Considerable Canadian wheat already finds its way across the border; because of its high quality it is used for mixing with low-grade American wheats.

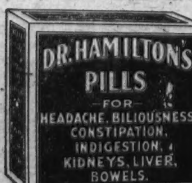

It is a singular thing that while wheat is nowhere found wild, it will grow in any climate except the Arctic—the northern limit for wheat growing has not been reached, and it produces abundant crops even in equatorial regions.

Another remarkable thing about wheat was discovered during the past season, when our crop was marketed in the face of gravely disturbed European conditions—wheat is currency just as good, if somewhat more bulky than gold. The British exports simply bartered our wheat in Europe last year. They did not pretend to sell it for money. The depreciated and shaky state of most of the currencies made the risk too great, so the canny Britisher simply trades so many bushels of wheat for so many hundredweight of flax, raisins or other commodities. By this bartering process the price of wheat has remained at a fairly steady level in spite of the hectic European money conditions.

Many western farmers have been worrying about what will happen to the European demand for wheat in case other countries collapse completely as has, for instance, Austria. But the fluid and non-perishable nature of wheat makes it a commodity which is pre-eminently easy to barter, and European conditions can become much more disturbed than they are present without seriously disturbing the market for Canadian wheat.

Not only that, but it is becoming evident that a world shortage of wheat during 1922 is a serious probability. Certainly there are no adequate reserve stocks anywhere in the world, so that the outlook for a firm market for Canada's 1922 wheat crop is good. —Regina Post.

Saskatchewan's Wheat Production
Saskatchewan's wheat production for 1922 was over 320,000,000, or nearly the average wheat production for the whole of Canada during the past six years, according to recent Government statistics. Of the estimated cereal production for the whole of Canada in 1922 (1,900,000,000 bushels), Saskatchewan produced 485,000,000 bushels.

Juveniles From British Isles

Salvation Army Plan to Bring Selected Youth to Canada

One of the most important results of the recent visit to Canada of Commissioner David C. Lamb, head of the emigration work of the Salvation Army, and his conference with the Minister of Immigration and Colonization in Ottawa, is that official endorsement was given to the proposal of the Salvation Army to bring a number of selected juveniles from the British Isles to settle in the Dominion.

Part of the plan is to place a number of these boys, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, as apprentices on Canadian farms. The boys will be chosen from among many who are ready to leave school. Many of them are the children of parents who are unable to afford to continue their education or bear the expense that is incidental to a long apprenticeship to a skilled trade. It is here where the Salvation Army will co-operate. With the joint approval of the boy and his parents, arrangements will be made for the boy to come to Canada, where he will be placed as a farm apprentice under a contract for one year. Every possible precaution will be taken to see that the boys chosen are of excellent character.

Already Adjutant Wm. Dray, of the Salvation Army, Winnipeg, has received several requests from farmers in Manitoba, who are willing to take one of these boys.

It has been arranged that the first party of boys arrive in Canada sometime in March, and a quota will be placed on farms in Manitoba.

In the past forty years about 76,000 juveniles have come to Canada from the Mother Country under the auspices of such agencies as the Salvation Army and it is significant that none have become a charge on the Canadian public; many, indeed, have become prominent citizens, a number being conspicuous in the public life of the Dominion. During the war over 10,000 of these boys enlisted with the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

Crime in U.S. and Britain

Perhaps the difference in crime records in Great Britain and the United States may be explained by the difference of methods in dealing with crime. In Great Britain the action of the law is sure and speedy. In the United States it is neither. Trials are delayed and punishment is deferred. In Great Britain when a man, or a woman, commits a crime the chances are the punishment will follow promptly. In the United States the chances are the other way. —Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Liniments Won't Relieve Pain Between the Eyes

That pain is not rheumatism or neuralgia. Many folks think so—it is due to Catarh, plain ordinary Catarh, and needs attention right now. Catarh is the name of a wonderful invention that is daily taking up chronic cases of weak throat, bronchitis and catarrh. Every breath through the Inhaler is laden with soothing, healing substances that destroy all diseased conditions in the breathing organs. It can't fail to help, because it goes where the trouble really exists—and doesn't attempt to relieve as liniments in the head or throat by means of medicine taken into the stomach. There is no sufferer from a grippy cold or any winter ill that won't find benefit in Catarh, which is employed by Physicians, ministers, lawyers and public men throughout many foreign lands. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1.00. Small size 60c, sample size 25c, all storekeepers or the Catarhophone Co., Montreal.

Everywoman's Sanatorium Fund

Five Tubercular Women Are Now Receiving Treatment at Expense of Fund

Through the energetic help of many friends of the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League the $50,000.00 Everywoman's Sanatorium Fund which is being promoted by the Provincial Council of Women grew to $125,000 before the end of January. The success of the movement seemed so far assured that five tubercular women were taken to the Sanatorium at Fort Qu'Appelle during January at the expense of the $50,000.00 Fund, and are receiving care.

All men and women who feel an anxiety to have the death rate in the province from tuberculosis cut down are invited to join in the movement to obtain funds enough for free care for one year of 50 tubercular women who have no means of getting to a hospital, and would be forced to stay home while the disease grew and while their children were in constant danger, too.

Gifts for helping in this work may be sent to Mrs. F. W. Bates, 2048 Angus Street, Regina; to The Leader Publishing Company, Regina; to The Times, Moose Jaw; or to A. B. Cook, Business Manager, Sanatorium, Fort Qu'Appelle. They will be acknowledged promptly.

The I.O.D.E. Chapters have been helping in anti-tubercular work and the Fort Qu'Appelle Chapter alone has placed a child patient in the Sanatorium, and is paying for her care. Six Chapters from Peace, Wapella, Regina and Saskatoon have in January donated $395 for free care of tubercular children; the Michael O'Leary, Y.C., Chapter at Wadena has sent $5 for the Everywoman's Fund. The Arcola I.O.D.E. members are pushing the fund also.

The Pat Burns Chapter has sent a gift of $100 to the Sanatorium; the Melville Masonic Lodge sent $175; Mr. and Mrs. Van Ezmond, Regina, sent $200 to help keep up the ward they furnished two years ago; and the Estevan Young Ladies' Club has promised $50, and to help raise it are holding a Valentine tea. The Drink water H.M.C. made $17 for the fund by selling refreshments at the skating rink one night.

Canada Occupies Second Place Among Nations Of World As A Producer Of Wheat

Canada's agricultural industry is frequently regarded in an entirely partial light. The statistics appeal to the consideration of the millions of acres of uncultivated lands in the Western Provinces largely shadow the relatively small extent of land cultivated and producing and makes it insignificant in comparison. Canadian agriculture is, therefore, by some people, come to be regarded as something immense lying in the possibility of the future, an immense thing to come, an almost inconceivable potentiality. It is not generally appreciated that, comparatively considered on the basis of production and achievement, Canadian progress in agriculture is a matter of such rapid growth as to be in all probability without equal in the history of young, immature, growing nations.

According to the figures of the 1921 census, Canada's rural population, the greater part of which may be considered to be directly engaged in agriculture, was 5,224,252, exceeding by no an extensive margin the Dominion's urban population. On the basis of the actual number of people engaged in the pursuit of agriculture, Canada ranks seventh amongst the countries of the world, being exceeded by the United States, Austria-Hungary, British India, France, Germany, Italy and Russia. This in itself is no small achievement for such a young country.

In a comparison of total land areas under cultivation, Canada occupies fourth place amongst the countries of the world, being exceeded only by the United States, India and Russia. In the year 1921 the total area under field crops alone was 59,625,000 acres, being divided as follows: Prince Edward Island, 0.3 per cent; Nova Scotia, 1.4 per cent; New Brunswick, 2.0 per cent; Quebec, 13.5 per cent; Ontario, 16.9 per cent; Manitoba, 12.4 per cent; Saskatchewan, 36.5 per cent; Alberta, 15.8 per cent; and British Columbia, 0.6 per cent.

Occupying seventh place in agricultural population and fourth place in the extent of land under cultivation, Canada, with an estimated production of 388,725,000 bushels in 1922, occupies second place among the nations of the world as a wheat producer, coming after the United States only. In the production of oats the Dominion and the United States fill the same relative places in the list, Canada having an estimated production of 558,368 bushels this year. The rice production of Canada, amounting to 19,602,000 bushels, gives Canada fourth place for this crop, following the United States, Germany and Poland. Similarly, in the barley crop, Canada fills the fourth place, being exceeded in annual output by the United States, Roumania and Japan.

Considerable prominence has recently been given to Canada's position in world export trade, especially in the Dominion's wonderful rise to occupy first place in per capita value of export trade, and it does not, therefore, come as such a surprise to learn that according to national estimates of the disposal of the 1922 world crop, Canada will lead all countries in the exports of grain.

Canada does not occupy such a relatively high position in the livestock industry at the present time, and in this is reflected the great development of the grain and mixed farms in the Canadian West and the somewhat depressing period through which the Dominion livestock industry has been passing. In her cattle possession Canada occupies tenth place among all countries, being exceeded by Argentina, Australia, Brazil, France, Germany, India, Russia, United Kingdom and United States. In the sheep industry she is surpassed by eleven other countries, occupying the twelfth place. The Dominion, however, rises to eighth place in the possession of swine, those countries owning a larger number being Austria, Brazil, France, Germany, Hungary, Russia and the United States.

In the livestock industry, however, it is to be borne in mind that most countries which surpass Canada in possession are of large population, and that in per capita ownership the Dominion would rank very high indeed. In all probability taking the leadership. This is also a very pertinent factor in the export trade, there being a relatively small consumption in Canada, leaving large volumes available for export disposition.

In the production of dairy products, in which Canada is making such remarkable progress, it is not possible to obtain figures to determine the Dominion's position in respect to other countries of the world. It is known, however, that in addition to supplying her own needs, to do which she was formerly obliged to import, Canada last year exported $4,430,591 pounds of butter worth $2,224,390 and 123,819,760 pounds of cheese worth $25,410,322, the butter going to the United Kingdom, United States, Belgium, France, Holland, Trinidad, China, Cuba, France, Newfoundland, St. Pierre and Miquelon and other countries, whilst Canadian cheese went in addition to Denmark, Germany, Greece, Italy, Malta, Netherlands and Sweden.

The foregoing should give some indication of the place Canada, in her yet infantile years, has come to occupy in relation to world agriculture. With a proper appreciation of agriculture as the basis of all national prosperity, it is a position of which the oldest and most mature countries might be proud. Whilst it is true that in view of the almost limitless possibilities of farming in Canada, having regard to all the millions upon millions of acres yet to be settled and rendered productive, what has been accomplished becomes dwarfed, Canada stands today with a record of achievement behind her which gives her, in her cradle years, an enviable position among the oldest countries of the globe.

MANY CHILDREN SICK, HOW TO TREAT THEM

The kiddies will get their feet wet, catch cold, get crup and give their mothers lots of trouble. With the first cough or sneeze rub the little one's chest with Nerviline, rub it on plentifully, it can't harm. Then make 2 gargle with Nerviline and water and have the child gargle for five minutes. Just at bed time, give the child ten drops of Nerviline in his sweetened water. The result is fine, and next morning child is better. Nerviline is a great protectant for the home. Protecting B.C. Forests

Wireless Installed on Airships Will be Used this Year

Protection of the forests of British Columbia by means of wireless installed on airships will soon be an accomplished fact, according to Major Earl Godfrey, officer commanding the Canadian Air Board squadron at Jericho. The Air Board of Canada has ordered wireless to be installed on all flying machines in the Dominion and tentative arrangements are being made with the Forestry Department and the Provincial Government for the provision of receiving stations and an organized patrol.

A GOOD ONE DAY'S SPORT

Four men, four bears and two deer. That's not a bad day's sport anywhere in the world. It all happened in Southern Quebec on hunting grounds about 6 miles from North Stukely, which is a station on the Canadian Pacific a short distance northwest of Sherbrooke, Que. The country there is hilly and much broken by beautiful lakes. Three of them in the district are Brompton, Bawker and Banells. North Stukely has a hotel, and the men in the photo are guides, whose knowledge of the district is complete.

"Very pretty," the Senator observed judicially. "Handed, perhaps."

"How long are you going to stay?" asked Wade.

Helen laughed happily.

"Perhaps that will depend upon how glad I think you are to have us."

She gave him an ardent glance, which he was not proof against, nor would any other man have been so.

"No doubt of that." He laughed with her, his disappointment passing before the old love spell, which she knew so well how to cast about him.

"You couldn't have come at a better time, either, for now there is some one here who can be company for you."

"That is," he added lamely, "when you're tired of having me around."

"Really?" Helen was a bit chilled by this obvious faux pas. Truly, despite his worth as a man, Gordon Wade was no courtier.

"Of course, you haven't heard of her, but you'll like her. She's Miss Dorothy Purnell. Everybody does like her."

Helen affected a gaiety which she could scarcely have been expected to feel. Although she was not socially adept in concealing her real feeling.

Wade saw nothing wrong. Only the Senator twisted his mouth in a grim smile.

"Oh, but I have heard of her; indeed, I have. Mr. Moran sent me a little photograph of you both on horse back. Just see how her fame has crossed the continent. I shall be charmed to meet her."

A great light dawned upon Wade.

"Then that was what he wanted with the picture," he exclaimed, wondering at the time, thought it pretty impudent of him, but, of course, if he wanted it just to send to you that was all right."

Miss Rexhill winced inwardly. In spite of herself, her face expressed a

WOMEN FROM FORTY TO FIFTY

Will Be Interested in Mrs. Thompson's Recovery by Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me good in every way. I was very weak and run-down and had certain troubles that women of my age are likely to have. I did not like to go to the doctor so I took the Vegetable Compound and am still taking it right along. I recommend it to my friends and to any one I know who is not feeling well."

Mrs. THOMPSON, 266 Little St., Winnipeg, Man.

When women who are between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five are beset with such annoying symptoms as nervousness, irritability, melancholia and heat flashes, which produce headaches, dizziness, or a sense of suffocation, they should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It is prepared from roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Book, which contains the full story of the recovery of Mrs. Thompson to Women.

certain amount of plaque, for the implication was manifestly that if Race Moran had wanted the picture for himself, the idea would have been intolerable to Wade.

"Oh, yes, quite all right. You seem . . . She checked herself with the reproach upon her tongue, reflecting that after all, she was most fond of Wade because of his naturalness. Maxwell Frayne, for instance, was without a peer in uttering graceful phrases; but he spun little else.

"That I don't understand why he should send it to you," Wade said, in a low tone, as the Senator turned to bend over an open traveling bag on a nearby chair. "Is he—do you—?" A slight rigor of jealousy seemed to seize upon him, under the witchery of her slow smile.

"Oh, he's been writing to me, and I suppose he thought I'd be interested. Of course, I was." She leaned toward him a trifle, a mere awaying of her body, like a lily in a breeze, and impulsively he placed his big hand over hers.

"It's better not—he'd better mind his own business!" he said grimly. She laughed softly, tantalizingly, and being human, Wade kissed her; the Senator being still busy with the contents of the bag.

"Thus engaged, none of them heard a knock at the door, which finally opened before Moran, who, even if he did not actually see the kiss, could hardly have failed to suspect it from their embarrassed manner. Helen felt sure from his annoyed expression that he had witnessed the scene, and she was rather glad of it.

He exchanged a slightly stiff greeting with the ranchman, and then while Wade and Helen continued their talk, the agent spoke in a carefully guarded undertone with his employer. The news he brought, whatever it was, seemed significant, for the Senator appeared worried and presently turned to Wade.

"You'll not mind if I go over to the office with Moran, Gordon?"

"Certainly not, Senator. Don't let me interrupt you. But what's the use of us staying indoors, Helen? The sun has turned now and it's cooler out. I'll show you something of our little metropolis. Or, I tell you what we'll do! Why not let me take you over and introduce you to the only woman you're likely to find congenial in this neighborhood? She'll be glad to meet you, I know."

In any other company, Miss Rexhill would probably have resented an invitation to call upon a rival, even apart from the elation of social calls, but not before Race Moran. Before him, she would not humble Wade in the least degree, if only because to do so would reflect upon her own preference between the men. She could only pretend to welcome the prospect of going to see Miss Purnell, and she played her part well.

"We may as well stay here now," Rexhill said, when the two young people had left the room. "When did all this happen?"

"I just got word of it," Moran answered, a bit excitedly. "Don't you see how it plays right into our hands? It's the greatest thing that could have happened for us. It might have been made to order."

"Are you sure it wasn't? Are you sure you didn't have the man shot, Race? Senator Rexhill's tone was very dry and he watched his companion keenly as he asked the question."

Moran assumed an attitude of indignation.

"Exactly," he said. "I want to know where we stand. By God, Race, you mustn't go flying off your head. We're traveling, mildly, to the wind as it is."

But these brawls are likely to happen at any time. "This one in particular has been brewing for weeks. Why connect me with it, unnecessarily?"

"All right. I see your point, of course. The assassin is unknown, suspicion naturally falls upon Wade, who is at the head of the cattle faction and who, as you say, threatened Jensen only this morning. If we can jail him for awhile his party is likely to fall down."

"Exactly!" Moran cried eagerly. "Fortune has placed him right in our hands."

"Well, I'm not going to have him arrested," Rexhill announced doggedly, "at least, not on my trumped up charge. He's broken my bread, Helen likes him. We call him a friend, in fact. I always play square with my friends as far as possible. Strategy is strategy, nobody can quarrel with that; but this thing you propose is something more."

Moran, while listening, had restrained his impatience with difficulty. He not only laid reason on his side, but personal hate as well. His sense of triumph in bringing the news to Rexhill had not been for their mutual cause alone; it had needed to Moran to point toward the end of his rivalry with Wade for the love of Helen. To have the fruits of victory snatched from him, because of a sentiment of friendship, was almost more than the agent could stand for.

"Good God, Senator," he burst out, "don't throw this chance away! Think what it means to us! We are running close to the wind, and until this morning it's been a toss up whether we'd get out of here with our lives; whether I would, at any rate. I've run a mighty big bluff on these cattle people, but I did it because it was the only way. I've held my own so far, but when they find out that it's not farm land we're after, but ore—why, Senator, there'll be no holding them at all! With Wade at their head and forty miles between us and the cars, where would we get off? We'd be lucky if we didn't swing from the limb of a tree. Do you suppose Wade would remember then that he'd broken your bread? I'll bet dollars to doughnuts he wouldn't."

"But—his voice sank to a significant whisper—"if we land him in jail."

"His friends here would get him out," interposed the Senator, nervously wiping his glasses.

"Then Uncle Sam would put him in again, with a troop of cavalry to keep order here, and that would be another advantage gained for our side. No, sir, once we get him in jail, we've got the law with us and against him, don't forget that. Then the cattle would lay mighty low. Wade has been their leader right along. I tell you, it's the only way, and you know what it means to us—to you."

"You don't have to tell me that," rapped Rexhill. "It's all fall to put this through. I'm a ruined man. Wade has a foreman he's mighty fond of, an old man named Santry, the agent remarked, trying another tack.

"Well, then, it's the only way, unless—"

"Unless what?"

"Unless your daughter marries him, and it all comes into the family. Upon that point, Moran, wished to know just where he stood.

"I've never made a dollar through my daughter yet, and I never would sell the Senator grudgingly. 'I'm not selling my own flesh and blood. I'll rot in the poorhouse first."

Moran gently breathed his relief. He would have fought to the fullest extent of his power to have aborted such a marriage, but if the Senator had favored it, he knew that it would have been difficult to prevent.

Dominion Government To Deal With Problems Affecting The Farmers

Gen. Julian (Lord) Byng, who delivered the speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament.

German Miners Trapped
Berlin.—Fire damp, following an explosion, has cut off 250 miners in the Heinitz mine at Bousen, Polish Silesia, says a Central News message. Several bodies have been recovered. There is little hope, the message adds, of saving any of the imprisoned miners.

Ottawa.—That the Dominion Government intends to deal with the adverse conditions with which agriculture generally is confronted in many parts of Canada, despite the abundant crops of the past year, was forecast by Governor-General Lord Byng in the Speech from the Throne delivered at the opening of Parliament.

The present conditions, Lord Byng declared, rendered it desirable that a special committee, with powers to make recommendations, be appointed to look into various agricultural matters, such as the mixing of grain in private terminal elevators, the marketing of farm products, the development of the livestock industry, and the possibilities of further diversification in Canadian agriculture.

A bill to safeguard the interests of consumers and producers from "unfair restriction of trade," will be introduced, it was forecast, as well as bills to revise the Bank Act and to effect a redistribution of seats in the House of Commons.

The session opened quietly. Following the formal reading of the Speech from the Throne in the Senate Chamber, the House transacted routine business, new members were introduced and leaders of the three parties paid tribute to those of their colleagues who died during the recess.

The Canadian Pacific Railway WILL FIND Farm Help for Western Farmers

TO BE OF SERVICE to Western Canadian Farmers and help to meet their needs in securing competent farm help, the Canadian Pacific Railway is prepared to utilize its widespread organization to provide such help from a number of countries.

The CANADIAN PACIFIC Railway will now receive and arrange to fill applications for male and female farm help to be supplied from Great Britain, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Switzerland and Norway. In all of which countries the Company has representatives who have farmed in and are familiar with Western Canadian conditions and who are now in touch with such men and women ready and anxious to come to Canada.

THE GOVERNMENTS of the countries above mentioned have expressed their willingness to aid the emigration of this class of their people. In order to fill such applications satisfactorily and being the help to the farmer at the proper time and with a clear understanding of the requirements and obligations of each, a printed "Application for Help" form has been prepared which can be obtained from any C.P.R. Station Agent or offices listed below.

The Company will make no charge to the farmer for this service nor will the farmer be required to make any cash advance whatsoever towards the travelling expenses of his help to the nearest railway station. The information necessarily asked for in these application forms, which will be held in strictest confidence, includes the following points:—(a) kind of help required—male or female—married or unmarried; (b) date required and for how long; (c) nationality desired; (d) monthly wages offered; (e) kind of work offered, etc.

Miss C. M. Criddle, who suffered from Kidney Trouble and got no Relief Till She took Dodd's Kidney Pills. Langton, Ont.—(Special).—Miss C. M. Criddle, a well known resident here, states, "I have been troubled with my kidneys for some time. Your Dodd's Kidney Pills did me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken. I think they are a wonderful medicine."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a kidney remedy. They tone up and strengthen weak kidneys and put them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Strong healthy kidneys are absolutely necessary if the blood is to be pure and the body healthy.

Pure blood coursing through the body carries to the different organs, the nourishment they need, keeps them sound and enables them to throw off disease of different kinds.

Caucasian Tribe Suffering From Famine and Disease

Moscow.—The Daghestan Republic, a tiny nation of fierce mountain tribes on the Northeastern slopes of the Caucasus is starving and without medicine. M. Sumzolsky, the little country's president, has informed Capt. Quinn, acting head of the American relief administration. As a result of a conference between the two men the relief organization has agreed to help Daghestan. President Sumzolsky told Capt. Quinn that 250,000 cases of tropical malaria existed in his country while 150,000 persons were starving.

Want Increased Pay

Civil Servants Will Present Request to Dominion Government

Vancouver.—Revision of salaries to include a minimum wage of $100 a month, will be one of the requests of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada to the Dominion Government when the annual convention of the organization is held here commencing February 19, according to a statement made by H. T. Warburton, President Local Council.

Mr. Warburton declared that there were 18,821 civil servants in the Dominion receiving $80 a month and less. This amount he stated, did not provide for clothing, education and many other necessities of family life.

To Combat Drug Menace

Urges World-Wide Effort to Cut Drug Production

Washington.—President Harding will be required to urge a world-wide limitation of narcotics and habit-forming drug production, under a resolution introduced by Chairman Foster, of the Foreign Affairs Committee of congress.

Asserting that present conditions, arising from the use of narcotic drugs, are due mainly to production many times greater than is necessary the resolution requests the President to urge upon the governments of Great Britain and Persia the immediate necessity of limiting growths of plants used in the production of opium and its derivatives exclusively to the amount actually required for medical and scientific purposes.

French And Belgians Continue To Tighten Grip On Ruhr Valley

London.—The Franco-Belgian grip on the Ruhr is tightening. The occupational authorities have seized the entire customs of the Ruhr Valley and have shut off all shipments of coal from the Ruhr to unoccupied Germany.

A serious situation has arisen at the mines. Only about half the normal output is being brought to the surface. Though the output is small, coal is accumulating at the pit heads, owing to the shortage of cars and the French admit that this may cause a suspension of operations within a few days.

The German railroad men who went on strike are displaying a determined front; they refuse to work, and traffic is tied up.

Essen has been shut off by means of the severing of telegraph and telephone communications and the scarcity of food throughout the Ruhr is becoming more pronounced.

Herr Sillanes has discontinued German deliveries for the devastated area of France. Gold marks to the amount of five hundred million, due on the reparations account, have not been paid by Germany. Therefore, unless Germany makes a satisfactory response to the latest note of France and Belgium, these powers have decided to take still more rigorous measures.

Prime Minister Bonar Law has decided to accede to the request of the Parliamentary Labor party that Parliament be summoned earlier than February 13, the date set for the re-assembly, to consider the situation in the Ruhr.

Re the School Question.

The following are the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Education—
In 1886 Queen Victoria appointed a commission to thoroughly study the school question in England and Wales, to report on their findings and make recommendations in regard to educational needs.
Twenty six of the most learned and recognised public men in England were appointed to work on this committee.
The committee worked for nearly two years. They called into their meetings school inspectors, teachers and every kind of men who were interested in education, to have them testify before the committee. After two years of mistaking work and serious deliberation, they issued a report on their findings and made recommendations. Among these we find the following—

"While we desire to secure for the children in the public elementary schools the best and most thorough instruction in secular subjects, suitable to their years and in harmony with their requirements for their future life, we are also unanimously of the opinion that their religious and moral training is a matter of still higher importance alike to the children, the parents, and the state.

"All the evidence is practically unanimous as to the desire of the parents for the religious and moral training of their children.

"The evidence does not warrant the conclusion that religious and moral training can be amply provided otherwise than through the medium of the elementary school.

"It is of the highest importance that the teachers who are charged with the moral training of the children should continue to take part in the religious instruction. Any separation of the teacher from the religious teaching of the school would be very injurious to the moral and secular training of the scholars.

"We cannot recommend the plan which has been suggested of religious instruction being given by voluntary teachers on the school premises outside of school hours.
Such a plan would not be an efficient substitute for the system of utilising the teachers and the school room for this purpose.

"Inasmuch as parents are compelled to send their children to school, it is just and desirable that, as far as possible, they should be enabled to send them to a school suitable to their religious convictions or preference. A. J. B.

Seed Orders.

The new seed catalogs will soon be received with their ever attractive descriptions of novelties and staple varieties;
but, while these catalogs are eagerly looked over, it frequently happens that the ordering of the seeds is left until spring. By that time the seeds which we most desire may be exhausted, as the best stocks of the best varieties are usually limited, hence the desirability of ordering soon, to ensure getting what you want.

Some novelties are well worth the high price asked for the seed, while others are no better than the old sorts.
It is best to let the Experimental Farms and Stations do most of the testing of these, and delay ordering until a report is received from one of these stations as to their merits.

The cost of good seed is small, compared with the value of the crop obtained.

There are now many lists of best varieties of vegetable and flower seeds available thru the Experimental Stations and Agricultural Colleges, and it will be found to be well worth while getting these before deciding on what to buy.

When one has seed of a good strain of some particular variety of flower or vegetable it is desirable to sow the same seed another year after testing it for germination as sometimes it is not possible to get the same strain two years in succession.

Order early—order the best seed of the best varieties.
